

ABSTRACT

- A technique for automated paragraph layout identifies possible lines within a paragraph in a top-down pass through the paragraph, selects a combination of the possible lines in a bottom-up pass through the paragraph, and specifies a layout for the paragraph within a page according to the selected combination. The technique is capable of producing paragraph layouts within complex shapes with high speed and moderate use of computing resources.
- 5

0022004920900